In the U.S., Thanksgiving Day is a special day each year. On this day, people give thanks with prayers for the good things that have happened in their lives during the year. Most people have a very special dinner on Thanksgiving. They usually have turkey, cranberries, corn, and pumpkin because these were kinds of food people had at the first Thanksgiving.

The history of this holiday is very interesting. In 1620, a small group of people (Pilgrims) came from England. They were looking for religious freedom in this new land. They arrived in the fall, and the winter was terrible for them as they had almost no food.

Almost half of the people died. The next summer, they learned how to grow food with help of the Indians. When they knew they had enough to live for another year, they had a celebration when they gave thanks to God and shared their food the Indians. They had corn , turkey, pumpkin, and cranberries because these were things that grew there. After that, other areas in this new land also began to celebrate this day.

For many years, there was no regular Thanksgiving day Day. Some states celebrated the holiday, but others didn't. For many years, it was the last Thursday in November. In 1939, President Roosevelt decided to make the 4th Thursday in November the official Thanksgiving Day, and that is the day Americans celebrate now.

I Ate Too Much Turkey

I ate too much turkey,
I ate too much corn,
I ate too much pudding and pie,
I'm stuffed up with muffins
and much too much stuffin', I'm probably going to die.
I piled up my plate and I ate and I ate, but I wish I had known when to stop,
for I'm so crammed with yams, sauces, gravies, and jams that my buttons are starting to pop.
I'm full of tomatoes
and french fried potatoes, my stomach is swollen and sore,
but there's still some dessert,
so I guess it won't hurt
if I eat just a little bit more.
